This year we have given the full cash value of the town's property—including the Town Farm, Shoe Factory, Stock, Tools, and Household goods—also a list of all the orders drawn for the year, so that each person may see what disposition has been made of the town's money. We regret to find so large an amount of unpaid taxes on the Collector's books, as it keeps the town short of funds all the time. As yet we have not hired any one to take charge of the town farm, but hope to do so in a few days. We are well pleased with the management on the farm the past year, and wish we might be able to keep Mr. and Mrs. Crockett longer.—The buildings are in good repair, and the stock is looking well. We recommend a vigorous continuation of clearing the intervalle land to obtain more hay, and keep the upland in a higher state of cultivation.

Mr. Crockett has performed thirty days labor with the Oxen on the highway the past year.

SCHOOL REPORT.

Your committee in presenting their report of the schools for the year, can speak in gratifying terms of the work done by our teachers. We have no need to fill up a report of "harsh censure of old school houses," of agents not doing their duty, of poor teachers, etc., as is somewhat customary in school reports. In such cases the question naturally arises, how it happens that everybody is at fault except the committee? Without good instructors we cannot have good schools, and it is the duty of the committee to see to it that none but good teachers are allowed to enter our schools.— This is a pressing duty and one that cannot be evaded. It is true that much depends upon agents in the selection of instructors, but it is equally certain that very much more depends upon the committee whether we have good schools. Good work has been done during the year, we have had an excellent class of instructors and the scholars have manifested a degree of interest scarcely ever seen before in town. But for an unusual and large amount of sickness prevailing during the winter that has seriously affected nearly every school in town, we should have been enabled to present results that would have been beyond precedent. We have had less money than usual to expend, but our schools, we judge, have been more than ordinarily successful and efficient owing principally to having a better class of instructors. Our less meritorious teachers are being gradually displaced by others who are more alive to the demands of the hour, and this is as it should be. Those who are not willing to work hard, who cannot keep abreast of the spirit of the age, must expect to be left behind. We have no preferences except what are forced upon our consideration by merit alone, and while it is not our duty to encourage poor teachers to be such or to varnish over defects that no efforts are made to remedy, we do see substantial results flowing from the assistance and encouragement that is rendered or given to the worthy. We have seen the workings of both systems (if they may be called such), and are satisfied which is the better way. A few more years of such labor as has been bestowed by our best instructors, with the rising tide of approbation that is coming up from the people, will place our schools upon a basis, that cannot be lightly overthrown, and the wisdom and good results of which will be more fully apparent year by year.

No. 1. Miss M. E. Merrill taught both the summer and winter terms of the school. Miss Merrill is an experienced teacher and is well liked.

No. 2. The summer school was taught by Miss Belle French. Miss French labored hard for the interest of the school, her duties being performed to the satisfaction of the committee.

The winter term was taught by Miss Ada Haskell. This school is the hardest one to teach in town, but not the least trouble has arisen during the winter. Miss Haskell won the esteem and respect of her scholars which continued to the end. She is one of the best instructors we have. Her methods are very good, no teacher taking a higher rank in this respect. She is liked wherever she goes and is always successful.

No. 3. Miss Izah Millett had charge of the summer school and her efforts were entirely satisfactory to the district and committee. Miss Millett is a young teacher, but is evidently fitted for the school-room. She manages a school admirably.

The winter term was taught by Arthur French, and was very successful. Mr. French is one of our best teachers, his methods of instruction are practical and he succeeds in holding the interest of his scholars to the end of the term.

No. 4. Miss Belle L. Reed had charge of this school through the year. Her system of teaching is good, her scholars are always interested and the examinations show good results. Of the fourteen pupils who attended the winter term, ten were not absent one half day.

No. 5. The summer term was taught by Miss M. A. Chadbourne of Waterford. Miss Chadbourne is a graduate of a Normal School and an excellent teacher. The school passed a good examination at its close.

The winter term taught by A. E. Briggs, was in every respect a success. Mr. Briggs is a practical instructor of much experience, and thoroughly understands his duties in the school room. This school ranks in scholarship among the best outside the village. The examination was very thorough and highly satisfactory.

No. 6. Miss Mattie Brooks whose reputation as a teacher was long since established, taught the summer term; and Mr. J. A. Gallison the winter term. The discipline and progress of both schools were entirely satisfactory.

No. 7. The degree of interest on the part of the scholars in this district hitherto attained has in no wise abated, but on the contrary has largely increased during the year. Mr. O. W. Collins cannot be excelled as a High school instructor. He is a general favorite with his pupils, but better than all, he is superior in his methods of teaching. This is coming to be more generally and widely known, and we may hereafter expect a large attendance of scholars from out of town during the spring and fall term, while he has charge of the school. No better opportunity is now offered for the student to fit for the higher institutions of learning, than is presented here. A comparison of our schools with others will convince every one that they are not excelled by any, and equalled by none around us. We have a superior class of teachers and our scholars are as good as can be found.—Teachers who have graduated at our High school pass better examinations than those educated elsewhere, and their schools show better results. There has been an increased demand for such instructors that will grow with every year. The increasing attendance and interest are not confined to any one school but is general in all departments. In some as many as twenty-five to thirty go through the term without missing a day. All the teachers have given excellent satisfaction and are deserving of all praise.

No. 8. Miss Anna D. Hall taught the summer school. Miss Hall is one of our best instructors and is well liked everywhere.

The winter school was under the charge of Miss Franie Jones, and was very satisfactory in all respects. Miss Jones is a thorough and practical instructor and is not excelled by any.

No. 9. The summer term of eleven weeks was taught by Miss Ella J. Stone. The government and order were excellent, and fine progress was made.

The winter term by Mr. Frank Bradbury. This was this teacher's first school and was in every way successful. The measles invaded the district and shattered the school.

No. 10. The summer term taught by Miss Franie Jones, was very successful. No summer school showed better results, the examination being very excellent.

The winter school was under the charge of Geo. R. Gibson. The attendance was somewhat effected by sickness, but notwithstanding this, the interest of the scholars was kept up and good progress made.

No. 11. The summer term by Miss Augusta French was a good school. Order and progress were excellent.

The winter term by Mr. Elmon J. Noyes gave good satisfaction at the examination, which was thorough in all branches. Hard work had evidently been done.

No. 12. Miss Jennie Holt taught the summer school.—Miss Holt is a young teacher but is well liked. A good degree of progress was made.

The winter school was taught by Miss Annie S. Parker. Miss Parker is one of our best teachers and succeeds in giving excellent satisfaction. The examination was very good.

No. 13. The summer term was taught by Miss Isabel Stone of Waterford. Miss Stone labored hard to make her school profitable and succeeded. The interest of her scholars was kept up through the term.

The winter school was taught by Miss Dora Jackson who gave good satisfaction to the district. She is a strict disciplinarian and a thorough teacher.

No. 14. There was no summer school in this district.—The winter school was taught by Miss Ada Morton of Paris. Miss Morton possesses the qualifications necessary for an instructor of youth, is thorough and practical and ranks among the best. This school did very excellent work under her charge, and so well was she liked by the district that the school was lengthened two weeks by private subscriptions.

No. 15. Miss Julia Hall had charge of the summer school. Miss Hall is so well known as the efficient teacher of the Grammar school in No. 7 that no words of praise are needed here.

The winter school was taught by Miss Augusta French, who is one of the best teachers in town. Miss French's school was noticeably efficient, the examination at its close being very satisfactory.

The table will contain all other necessary information.
